WHERE OUR SHIPMENTS OF FIRE CLAY GOES.

Interesting Story About the Western Tube Company's Works at Kewanee, Ill.—Forecast of the Zinc Markets—New Mines Ships 4000 Tons of Carbonate.

MINING NEWS OF VARIOUS SECTIONS.

It is often interesting to mining men to watch the various processes through which crude ore passes before becoming of general commercial value in the shape of metal. The Press has frequently described the burning of our carbonate of zinc, resulting in what is known as zinc oxide, or zinc white and the smelting and refining of our ores of lead have also been touched upon.

The little village of Kewanee, Illinois, on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, is almost dominated so far as industrial enterprises are concerned, by the Western Tube company. It is really wonderful that such a gigantic enterprise could have been successfully established on a tract of prairie land, situated far from all large commercial centers. Some surprise has at times been expressed here as to what this company could do with the immense amount of fire clay shipped from the Stephens farm at Salem to the works at Kewanee. It was told the writer by a brick manufacturer at Henderson that unquestionably zinc or lead must be carried with the clay as no brick maker could pay the two dollar per ton rate from the banks to the depot, and the $1.60 railroad freight, besides royalty, superintendence, etc., and make a dollar a thousand out of the brick. He has taken samples and burned a brick and it was about the finest specimen of a brick he ever handled, but as a commercial proposition it would not pay without there was something else in it.

To carry out the policy of the Press in throwing light upon subjects that vitally interest our great clientele of readers, a visit was made to Kewanee and a thorough tour of inspection made of the great works, which employ 3,700 men, with the world of machinery that such an army must have at command to make such an enterprise successful. The production of tubes of all sorts, sizes and descriptions is the work that these men and this machinery perform. Twenty thousand car loads of material pass in and out of the Western Tube works every year. It is a busy place, yet every one of the 3,700 men employed have a specific duty to perform and rarely is there a link in this great human chain that fails in its duty.

It requires eight thousand car loads of coal to melt the 3800 car loads of pig iron that every twelve months pass through the gates of these works, and are taken out as manufactured tubes. The Stevens fire clay has an important function to perform in the melting of this iron. Five thousand tons will be used this year in the cupola furnace of the Tube company. The difference ordinarily observed in fire clay is the question of duration. The clay from Pennsylvania, formerly used, stood the work for eight days; the Crittenden county fire clay makes a record of 21 days, a difference of 13 days, and that number of days is sufficiently great to warrant the company in its use, even if much more expensive than at present. The clay is ground and tempered and without being burned is made into furnace linings. This of course saves labor and money as a cupola in blast for 21 days instead of 8 means an output very much greater than where the furnaces have to blow out and become cool enough to reline every 8 days instead of 21.

The Western Tube company is a great corporation and every one of its 3700 employees are always alert in forwarding its interests in every way possible.

The Marion Zinc company has been in hot water almost from its inception. Promoted by two gentlemen from Indiana, one a millinery drummer by the name of Griffith, the other a man by the name of Knight, formerly a railroad conductor and later engaged in various enterprises in Indiana and Illinois, they endeavored to corral a large portion of the country for prospecting. To use a trite but homely adage, they "bit off more than they could chew," and as a result of too much surface ground and too little money for their labor roll, they have apparently reached that stage in business life where, as the card players say, they must either "put up or shut up." Actions for debt were commenced against this company last week by the Pierce Livery company, Bigham & Brown, Duvall Transfer company, Adams & Cochran and county clerk Weldon.

Mr. Wm. S. Lowrey, of Salem, writes the Press as follows:

On the E. E. Hodge property, now being developed by Pittsburg and Muncie, Ind., capitalists, there has been a number of large fissure veins opened up in the last few days, and the ore in same is of a high grade, and two thirds of this ore will not have to be washed, or screened either, before it is ready for market. It comes out nice and clean from between two nice walls almost extending to the surface. There is no better showing today in Western Kentucky than this property for fluor spar. Hundreds of tons now in sight and the vein continues, to increase, both in quantity and quality, as depth is reached, and a number of teams will start at once to moving this spar to the I. C. R. R. at Crayneville. Each team will make two loads per day.

It is the intention of the above-named capitalists to work this property day and night, and make it one of the largest producing properties in western Kentucky.

Some months since the Illinois Central railroad decided to build a couple of spurs, or taps, as they prefer to call them, from the main line, for the purpose of handling the large tonnage of fluor spar, zinc and clays that are now taxing the resources of their depot yards to the utmost.

It has been decided that one of these taps shall start from Mexico, eight miles south of Marion, running to the Yandell, Asbridge, Pogue and Hodge fluor spar mines and likely to the Western Tube company's fire clay property.

The second tap will leave the main line at Marion and will be run directly to the Columbia mine with spurs to the Old Jim and Lady Farmer zinc property on the one side and to the Crittenden Springs Hotel and Bitter Apple mine of Major Clement on the other. The contractors are daily expecting orders to commence work.

The following item was telegraphed from Owensboro to the Courier-Journal:

"Mr. B. H. Poindexter has returned from Marion, where he has been to attend a meeting of the stockholders of the Ohio Valley Mining company, of which he is the president. On account of the recent valuable zinc strike at Carrsville, Livingston county, the company increased the capital stock from $100,000 to $500,000. The stock is owned by six men and has all been paid in. The company is working a night and day force of men and new machinery is being installed."

The Press congratulates Messrs Geo. M. Crider, Judge Pierce, Cort Pierce, Joel Farmer and J. E. Chittenden, whom it is said constitute five of the six stockholders that paid in the $500,000 mentioned.

Messrs. Cartwright, of Morganfield, Barnett of Tolu, and Noe of Uniontown are to be congratulated on their work at Sheridan, six or seven miles west of Marion. Samples of high grade zinc blende in a calcite nature, or rather an occasional bit of calc spar in a high grade zinc ore, is the result of their prospecting, and they can be decidedly proud of the showing. It about as typical a Joplin ore as we have in the county, perhaps a little lighter in color and the crystals not quite so large, but taken as a whole it is an exceedingly rich ore of zinc and could be handled very cheaply, in the matter of dressing or concentrating.

The conveyance of a portion of the Farmer estate property, (as noted in the real estate transactions in this issue), by Senator Deboe to Chas. E. Dallam of Henderson rounds out the carbonate of zinc property of the Henderson syndicate in splendid shape. The heavy vein of zinc running into their original ground from the Old Jim property will very likely assert itself in this new acquisition and probably yield many times the $2,500 paid for it.

The handsome residence that Mr. Harry Carnahan tells the Press he is about to erect will add one more to our already growing list of new buildings. Mr. Carnahan will probably expend more money on this new home of his than anything he has undertaken for the past twenty years. As he stated the other day, Marion is to be the metropolis of this Wonderland of Kentucky and he proposes to help beautify it.

Mr. Currie, of the firm of Charles Earle Currie & Co., of Louisville, was in the city last week, endeavoring to purchase fluor spar for shipment. While there is an abundance of fluor spar for sale, the market is in a very strong position, and no proposition at a price less than five dollars per ton for the gravel variety would be entertained by the miners.

Reports from the Graphic mine of Socorro, New Mexico, state that it is now producing in excellent shape. A contract for 2,000 tons of ore, purchased by the Mineral point Zinc company, of Wisconsin, has been completed and a second contract of similar size made with the Ozark Zinc Oxide company, of Joplin, Mo., is now filled. The mine is one of the best zinc properties in New Mexico.

Messrs. A. Dean and John W. Wilson commenced Monday morning to mine fluor spar on the 100 acre tract owned by them in fee simple adjoining the Memphis property. The Memphis fluor spar is known to the hydrofluoric acid makers as the finest obtainable anywhere.

Major Clement has let a contract for a new forty foot shaft on the Bitter Apple mine, near the Crittenden Springs hotel.

The new baryta plant which is being erected by the Commercial Mining and Milling company east of Knoxville, Tenn., is now well on towards completion. Several car loads of machinery, some of which was imported from Germany, is now being installed, and the plant is to have a capacity of 25 tons of floated baryta daily. The entire output of the plant has been sold to eastern paint manufacturers.

Deeds were made last week conveying the interest of Messrs. Sturtevant & Halsell in the Wesley Eaton Fluorspar property to Mr. Rice, of Louisville. The consideration was one dollar, but probably when you get at the real facts in the case "love and affection had a good deal to do with it."

The Democrat of Mineral Point (Wis.) gives the following quotations:

Lead ore, per 1,000 lbs.	20 00	22 50
Drybone (Calamine) per ton	4 00	18 00
Blackjack (Blende) per ton	10 00	20 00
Sulphur, per ton,	3 00	6 00

Messrs. Ball & Koonce have uncovered No. 9 vein of coal a short distance from the depot at Corydon. An entry will be made almost directly on the I. C. railroad and switch and tippie constructed at once.

The strike of the miners at the Ohio Valley Mining company's prospect at Carrsville was promptly settled by Mr. Joel Farmer, who discharged the old force and put in their places a corps of miners.

On the Love property east of Fords Ferry, in this county, the Ohio Valley Mining company report a very flattering prospect being opened up.

WONDERS OF NATURE.

Magnificent Course of American Waters.

In a visit a few years ago to Niagara Falls and vicinity, the editor of the PRESS was as much impressed by some other wonders of Nature around Lake Chautauqua as by the falls of the river.

Niagara is of course one of Nature's masterpieces, but most every one is familiar with Niagara's appearance, as so many pictures of it are painted every year. Therefore one feels, in a measure, when looking at it, that he has seen it before, if he has not heard its thunders.

Lake Chautauqua is a beautiful dimple in the cheek of the earth, 18 miles long and 1 to 3 miles wide, elevated 750 feet above Lake Erie, which is plainly in sight, lying at its feet, being only 6 miles away. It nestles among a range of high hills and is fed by springs of purest water. The hillsides are vineclad, and the choicest of grass lands cover them with acarpets of velvet.

The water of the continent divides here. On the six mile ridge which divides Lake Erie and Lake Chautauqua the waters flow on one side into Lake Erie, thence over Niagara's cataract into Lake Ontario, and on via the Thousand Islands and the Rapids of the St. Lawrence river into the North Atlantic ocean.

On the other side of this same six mile ridge the waters flow into Lake Chautauqua, which is the source of the Allegheny river; thence through the mountains to Pittsburgh, where it joins the Monongahela and together they form the Ohio; thence on to the Father of Waters and on to the Gulf of Mexico; and then on via the Florida Keys to join the mighty Gulf Stream, which sweeps across the Atlantic after joining forces with the very waters of the Chautauqua Ridge which it reaches at the mouth of the St. Lawrence river.

One stands in wonder at the wonders of Nature, which are indeed everywhere.

FLOWER HAS DEADLY ODOR.

A tree hitherto unknown to botanists was recently discovered in a mountain canyon in a spur of the San Jacinto mountains in California, down near the Mexican line. It was discovered by a party of prospectors who penetrated the canyon in search of water. A branch of the tree and its blossoms was brought to the city for classification, but it was unknown to the botanists.

The leaves of the tree resemble in size and shape the fig leaf, but they are of a vivid purple color, and the under side of the leaf is thickly covered with stiff hairs, which stand out from the leaf fully half an inch. These hairs are sharp and thornlike, and easily penetrate the skin, and when they do so they are poisonous, causing swelling and much pain.

The blossoms are as peculiar as the branches and leaves. They are of a rusty red color and about two inches in diameter. In shape they are a very good representation of the tarantula. There is a huge hairy bulb, in shape resembling the abdomen of a poisonous spider, and there are several chives or stamens, corresponding to the legs of that insect.

The most peculiar feature of the plant, however, remains to be told. Whenever one approaches the plant, or when the wind agitates the branches of the tree, the flowers give off an abundance of perfume—heavy, sickening and deadly. This perfume has the quality of chloroform and a few inhalations of the odor produce unconsciousness. The prospectors who made the discovery of the plant were rendered insensible on approaching the tree to examine it.

As the plant seems to have no botanical name, two names have been suggested by the qualities of the plant itself. One is the tarantula plant, the other chloroform tree.

How Girls Can Help Mothers.

Every girl, if she be not thoroughly selfish, is anxious to lift some of the burden of household management from her mother's shoulders onto her own; but, unfortunately, many girls wait to be asked to do things instead of being constantly on the lookout for little duties which they are capable of doing.

If you would be of any real use in the home you must be quick to notice what is wanted—the room which needs dusting, the flowers that need rearranging, the curtain which has lost a ring, and is therefore drooping. And then you must not only be willing to do what is needed, but willing to do it pleasantly, without making people feel that you are being martyred.

It is almost useless to take up any household duties unless you do them regularly. If you do a thing one day and not the next you can never be depended on, and if some one else has to be constantly reminding you of and supervising your work, it probably gives that person more trouble than doing it herself would cause.

Have a definite day and a definite time for all you do—the flower vases will need attention every other day, the silver must be cleaned once a week, and there should be one day kept for mending and putting away the household linen. Begin, too, directly after breakfast, and keep on steadily till the work is done.

If you begin by sitting down, "just for a minute" with a book, or think you will "just arrange the trimming" on your new hat, the morning will be half gone before you know where you are.

A girl who has brothers may spare her mother all those tiresome little jobs which boys are always requesting to have done for them, if she will only do them kindly.

But a boy will not come and ask his sister to repair frayed out buttonholes, and to make him last for his photograph, if she is "always bummering."

It is not easy work, but is quite possible for the daughter at home to make sunshine.—Philadelphia Ledger.

POWER OF AN IDEAL.

A beautiful statue once stood in the market place of an Italian city. It was the statue of a Greek slave-girl. It represented the slave as tidy, well dressed and handsome. A ragged, unkempt, forlorn street child, coming across the statue in her play, stopped and gazed at it in admiration. She was entranced and captivated by it. She gazed long and admiringly. Moved by a sudden impulse, she went home and washed her face and combed her hair. Another day she stopped again before the statue and admired it, and received new inspiration. Next day her tattered clothes were washed and mended. Each time she looked at the statue she found something in its beauties until she was a transformed child.—Tresury of Religious Thought.

WITH HER TOES

Lady Writes, Draws and Embroiders With Ease.

With her toes Katherine Smith, of Poynette, Wis., has learned to do handsome and intricate embroidery, to draw with ease and skill, to write fluently and even to use carpenter's tools.

These remarkable accomplishments were not gained because of any desire for the unusual and bizarre, but were forced on her by grim necessity. When nine years old Miss Smith had both forearms amputated at the elbow. She is now a pretty and attractive young woman of eighteen, and by her pluck she has overcome many of the handicaps which circumstances place upon those afflicted like herself.

Miss Smith's misfortune call for particular sympathy, because she has never yet been able to earn a living with her work, and the fund of $1,300 which was raised for her at the time of her accident, has finally been exhausted.

Recently Miss Katie sent to Chicago a remarkable example of her work. It was a picture which she drew and then, without assistance, neatly and handsomely framed. With the picture was a sworn statement from M. L. Drake of Poynette, that, in his presence, Katie had sawed the material for the frame, nailed the corners, cut out the back for the picture nailed in and then screwed in the eyes and attached the wire for hanging.

Nine years ago Katie's father sent her to a saloon to get him a quart of whisky. Coming home she drank some of the cheap, fiery stuff she had bought and became intoxicated, and as she reeled into the house she fell against the stove with her hands on the red hot lids. She was so badly that it was necessary to amputate her arms above the elbow.

The sad story of the accident awoke a great deal of sympathy for the unfortunate child, and the fund of $1,300 was raised and deposited for her support with the Northern Trust Company. Miss May Ingraham, a kind-hearted woman of Poynette, took the child into her home and has cared for her ever since, receiving out of the fund the modest compensation of $3 a week. This fund is now exhausted and some provision must be made for Katie's future. She is a bright, cheerful, plucky girl, who has worked bravely to overcome so far as possible the terrible disability that fate put upon her. She can do things with her toes that might well have been considered impossible until she did them.—New York World.

WILL ECLIPSE ALL OTHERS.

The plans of the Kentucky Exhibit Association, looking to a big advertisement of the State, industrially, commercially, naturally, at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis next year, are rapidly maturing. Ground has just been broken for the State building on the best site on the grounds for a structure of the kind and the heads of the different departments are now actively engaged in collecting material for the exhibits in the main palace of the big show.

The Kentucky Building is conceded by the leading architects and contractors of the exposition to be the handsomest and most attractive of all the State buildings that have yet been begun. As to the displays to be made in the different departments, there is no telling how extensive and profitable the advertisement will become as thousands of square feet of space have been reserved for the "New Kentucky"—6,000 for minerals, 5,000 for tobacco, 5,000 for other agricultural products, 3,000 for horticulture, 3,000 for forestry, 2,500 for education, hundreds of stalls for live stock and individual space for machinery, liberal arts, transportation, varied industries, manufactures, etc.

The Association needs many thousands of dollars more to be able to put into effect all its plans and it is hoped that subscriptions will continue to roll in. Those of our citizens who have not contributed and intend to do so will aid the cause very much by delaying no longer. A dollar given now will be worth two dollars given in the fall. The building is being put up and all the exhibits must be collected before winter sets in.

Tiny Feet No Longer Desired.

Time was when to have tiny feet was the great desire of all woman-kind. The athletic girl has changed all that, and by the next generation feminine extremities will have grown to almost classical dimensions. As it is shape, not size, that makes or mars the beauty of a foot, this evolution is very desirable, proving as it does that the change is owing to the healthy outdoor life of the modern girl. She is so much on her feet that she does not think of squeezing her feet into shoes a size too small for her. Never was footwear prettier than it is at present. Well-shaped shoes are within the limits of the most modest income, and as for the stockings, they are simply dreams. With the demand for larger shoes the stockings have also grown in size until where 8, 8½ and 9 were worn five years ago the call today is for 9½ and 10½.

Our sisters of the Flowery Kingdom would open their sleepy, almond eyes in horror could they see the heroic proportion of their Western sisters' pedal extremities, but we must strive to keep our minds above criticism, and be content with quality, letting quantity take care of itself.

Save the Children

Ninety-nine of every one hundred diseases that children have are due to disorders of the stomach, and these disorders are all caused by indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is just as good for children as it is adults. Children thrive on it. It keeps their little stomachs sweet and encourages their growth and development. Mrs. Henry Carter, 705 Central St., Nashville, Tenn., says: "My little boy is now three years old and has been suffering from indigestion ever since he was born. I have the best doctors in Nashville, but failed to do him any good. After using one bottle of Kodol he is a well baby. I recommend it to all sufferers." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by R. F. Haynes.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL WINS

Unique Fight Between Railroads For Entrance Into Golconda.

The St. Louis Republic of July 11 says:

The injunction suit brought against the Illinois Central by the Toledo, St. Louis and New Orleans railroad company, for the right of way through Mitchell's Pass into Golconda, Ill., was decided yesterday in favor of the Illinois Central by Judge W. H. Duncan, at Golconda.

The decision closes the chapter in one of the most unique wars that ever arose between two great corporations, though it is stated the fight will be continued in the Illinois Supreme court.

According to an agreement with the citizens of Golconda the Illinois Central was to have the right of way into the city if its rails were laid by January 1, 1903. The only accessible route from the North through the city was by Mitchell's Pass.

It is stated that the Illinois Central did not complete its contract by the time specified, and accordingly proceedings were instituted by the Toledo, St. Louis and New Orleans company for right of way into Golconda, near and in which are rich mineral deposits.

Work was at once pushed so vigorously by the Illinois Central that in a few days not one but two of its tracks occupied the pass.

The Toledo, St. Louis and New Orleans immediately instituted proceedings injoining the Illinois Central from the occupancy of the pass, which injunction was dissolved yesterday.

It is stated that the Illinois Central intends to extend its line to a point opposite Marion, Ky., where it will build a bridge, thereby forming a connecting line with its Kentucky system.

Claims are now made that to force the Illinois Central to grant right of way into Golconda, the Toledo, St. Louis and New Orleans company has purchased the right of way of the route from Golconda to the point opposite Marion, as surveyed by the Illinois Central.

The Toledo, St. Louis and New Orleans is supposed to be backed by the Gould interests. It is projected to extend from Effingham, Ill., to Clay City, where it divides into two branches. One of these branches going almost directly south, and it is supposed to have been projected to go to Golconda, proceeding thence west parallel with the Ohio river to a connection with the Iron Mountain's Valley line.

The other line extends west from Clay City, penetrating the rich coalfield recently purchased by the Goulds and Leiters, and it also joins the Valley line.

The Paducah Register of the 13th inst. has this to say on the same subject:

"Doubters in Tennessee are becoming convinced that a strong company is behind the building of the Tennessee Central road, which is rapidly making its way from Nashville to Clarksville and on to Hopkinsville. Though it has often been said that the I. C. R. R. was building the line, until lately this was steadily disputed in Tennessee, but now other impressions are lodged, even in that State. In another year, when the great I. C. system is whirling its cars over the Central from one end to the other, that is, from Marion, Ky., to Harriman, Tenn.—the people will wonder how they ever doubted that this would be the case. The I. C. has long desired to go into the Tennessee capital and this desire is now almost an accomplished fact.

CHILD KILLED BY A SNAKE.

A deplorable accident took place in the Polin neighborhood, about twenty miles from Springfield, Ky. The grandson of Mr. Frank Thompson, a child five years old, was playing in the orchard near his home with his pet kitten. The child found a large snake, of the copperhead variety, and being ignorant of the danger, caught the reptile in his arms and started home. The mother appeared at that time and was horrified to find the snake striking fiercely at the kitten, which was struggling to release itself.

In a moment the child released both the kitten and the snake; the cat died within a moment after it struck the ground, and the child lived only a short time, although everything possible was done to save it.

ROOSEVELT AND THE NEGRO.

The Women's Rescue League of Washington, is after President Roosevelt with a forked stick. He gave permission for the use of the White House lot for an outing for the poor children of the District, and philanthropic citizens donated all the refreshments necessary. At the last moment a negro wrote to the President, complaining that the outing was for white children exclusively. As a balm for the colored brother the Executive forthwith issued an order withdrawing his permission for the use of the grounds. The women of the Rescue League say the white children shall have the outing if they have to enjoy it in the streets of the city.

GILBERT THE NOMINEE.

J. W. Gilbert, of Calloway county, received the democratic nomination for State Senator from the Third district at the convention at Cerulean Springs. The nomination was made on the fifth ballot and the only other name brought before the convention was that of C. C. Grassham, of Livingston county. The Hon. Fenton Sims, of Cadiz, was chairman of convention and J. A. Howlett, of Calloway county secretary.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT

For Jett and White—Jett Narrowly Escapes Death Sentence

The jury in the case of Curt Jett and Thomas White, the men charged with the assassination of Jas B. Marcum, of Jackson, Friday morning returned a verdict of guilty, fixing the punishment at life imprisonment.

The verdict was returned when there were few persons in the court room. The only attorney present was county attorney Webster.

Jett received the verdict with comparative indifference and was perfectly calm.

White, who had been apparently under a severe strain during the trial, flushed up and his eyes filled with tears.

Attorney Golden, for the defense, stated that a motion for a new trial will be made as soon as possible.

As at Jackson one juror stood between Jett and the gallows, and this was Jasper King, a cousin of attorney Lafferty of the defense.

On the first ballot Wednesday he voted not guilty. On the second ballot he voted with the majority. On the ballot on the degree of punishment only King was against hanging Jett; five were for a life term for White and seven for hanging him. The jury hung all the afternoon on Jett's punishment, and as no argument availed with King a compromise verdict was reached.

The other jurors are much incensed with King. Foreman McCauley said: "If we could have sentenced Jett to hang we would have gone a long way toward breaking up assassination in Breathitt county, but we could do nothing with King. We felt that a life sentence for White was all right."

It is said there were stormy scenes in the jury room.

King was denounced in a demonstration in front of the court house. When the jurors left hundreds of citizens shook hands with the eleven. Some wanted to burn King in effigy, but cooler counsel prevailed.

The jurors condemn King for making remarks during the trial tending to create a favorable impression for Jett and White, on the other jurors. John Renaker, a cousin of King, pleaded with him to come to the majority.

The prosecution is considering joining in the effort for a new trial, as it anticipates a death sentence next time.

As Jett entered the jail he said: "Well, by God they haven't got the stripes on me yet."

Judge Osborne granted a stay execution for sixty days.

Albert Lizer, of Cynthiaana, says he heard Lenoil Hays say: "Of course Curtis is guilty. He told me and his mother he killed Marcum."

LEISURE IS NOT PLEASURE.

The largest capital blunder a man can make is to sit in a corner wishing that he may not be disturbed. The human mind is a wonderful machine and is controlled by wonderful ideas. The man who allows thoughts to make him feel disinclined to use his energy and power with progressive thoughts, is being very much deceived by the wrong power. The useful, successful and happy man is the one who works all the time. Most every failure in the business world is due to the fact that the one that failed was made to feel that he wanted most to idle away his time and energies, and felt that it was a pleasure to sit around and do nothing. Don't you think the man who does nothing at all gets that "tired feeling" oftener than they who keep themselves busy with progressive thoughts? Time flies with the busy man. He accomplished much every day, while the man who idles his time gets good and tired and never accomplishes anything.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.—$1.00

Opportunities are the rounds in the Ladder of life.

Deserve success and you shall command it.

None are so poor as those who have no patience, and none so deformed as those who are unkind.

The man in Russia who is 200 years old and still living; has been a widower 125 years. It has been suggested that that probably accounts for his longevity.

When the War Revenue act was repealed the Pullman Palace Car company had on hand 8 tons of tickets with revenue stamps on them. There was almost 500,000.
The Government refund was $15,- 000.

Our work which we do for a livelihood ought never to be allowed to absorb our strength and time so that we have no spirit or energy for little kindnesses to those with whom we come in contact, in every day life, in a social and business way.

They now make diamonds from carbon, applying heat and pressure to match nature's own methods. It is said that 100,000 degrees of heat must have been used to make the deposits in the famous Kimberly mines in South Africa, but now man makes them that are good imitations with only 6000 degrees of heat.

To say the least it's a strange coincidence that the juror, Jasper King, who saved the necks of Jett and White, was a cousin of the attorney for the defense. A coun-sin of the man who accepted Hargis' money to defend the man charged with murdering James B.
Marcum. Eleven other jurors were for hanging both men.

Bob Walker has sold the Marion Press to S. M. Jenkins, a successful business man of Marion.
Mr. Walker and family will move to one of the western states in the hope that a change of climate will restore his broken down health to its old vigor. Bob will be missed by the fraternity in Kentucky, and especially in this end of the state.
We never knew a cleverer, more gentle, and whole-souled man, and we hope he will find strength and vigor in the new home he is going to seek. That he will find friends and a welcome wherever he goes we cannot for a moment doubt.
—Clinton Gazette.

The Crittenden (Ky.) Press has been sold to S. M. Jenkins, who assumed control the present week.
We regret that failing health should compel Bro. R. C. Walker to take this step, for he will be missed as a journalist throughout the entire section. We, however, extend our heartiest greeting to the new publisher.—Hardin New Era, Cave-in-Rock, Ill.

The Prison Commissioners have exonerated Warden Allagood for whipping Miss De Cris, stating in their report that she aggravated him extremely. He has voluntarily resigned and they have accepted his resignation. The Press thinks it was time for him to resign, and that their acceptance was the best thing they have done in the matter.

Atlanta is elated over the scoop of the "Seaboard Air Line" by the R. I. system. So is Marion elated over the scoop of Mitchell's Pass by the I. C. R. R. The first means that Atlanta will be the junction city of the great Southern system, while the second scoop means that Marion will be the junction city of the I. C. system, and that the Northern end will be tied to Louisville and Evansville lines right here. Marion may get the shops, which would mean 10, 000 men in less than five years.

They are having an ugly man's contest at Cadiz and there is considerable rivalry for the honor of being the ugliest man. We do not happen to know any of the aspirants except Paris Meacham, who is the 4th man. The other three certainly need, and most assuredly have our sympathy if they surpass him in that line. Hurrah for Paris!

The Press would advocate a something of this kind in Marion, and Crittenden county, but fears there would be more candidates than voters, therefore we'll pass it by until the young generation comes on and we'll see how they look before deciding on it.

One of the crying needs of Marion is a local laundry. We think every housekeeper would hail with delight the day when the laundry wagon would call for the family washing on Monday morning and return it Saturday in first-class order without any annoyance to herself. There are many families in Marion now who have trouble every week to get family washing done. In some communities the local laundry washes the clothes only and returns them to the lady of the house to be ironed at home.
They charge by the pound and it's satisfactory, reliable and cheap.
Won't some of our local capitalists promote this much needed convenience? The man who will solve the "family washing proposition" for the ladies of Marion will be rated even above Mr. Andrew Carnegie—the giver of libraries.

Mammoth Cave Party Returns.

The party of young people who enjoyed an overland trip to Mammoth Cave returned last week.

amining trial and is in jail to ry.

ed the stable formerly owned by

KEMPER SURRENDERS.

John Kemper, who shot and killed Wm. Dewees, near Carri-ville, will surrender to the authorities today, and the examining trial will be held today. He has employed James J. James to defend him. His defense will be that Dewees had ruined his home and that Dewees attacked him and he shot in self defense.

AN ANCIENT RELIC.

Mrs. Sarah Nunn, of the Gill
House in this city, has the Bible sworn into office as Governor of Kentucky. It is time-worn and bears the marks of extreme old age.

Mrs. Nunn is a direct descendant of Gov. Shelby, which was her maiden name, and this Bible has been handed down through the generations.

Letters received by relatives in the city report the safe arrival of the Witherspoon party in Pomona, Cal. Their train was 2 hours stead of coal and it is much nicer, no smoke; track oiled, too, no dust.

No rain on the trip as far as El Paso, which is the border town of daughter; all well and happy. Mrs.

Clement in perfect health. Deming is 434 feet above sea level and is 1281 miles west of New Orleans.

Reached Pomona Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. John Morse met us and took his family to his own home. We took rooms where he had been boarding. Orange trees with ripe fruit in the yards.
Fine homes with fountains in the yards. Bacon 18c, flour 35c lb; potatoes 15c lb; eggs 25c doz. year round; butter 35c lb. Morse bought cow for $60. We saw one vineyard of 350 acres. Rosebushes 10 feet high, with blooms as large as a saucer. Some orange trees show signs of frost.

Met Cos Clement, of Weston vicinity. He is in business and doing well; he is a nephew of Mrs.
Next Walker; wants us to take dinner with him Sunday."

C. S. Nunn. Each one invited their husband or some gentleman friend and all who could do so attended. Those present were Mr.
and Mrs. Henry Stone, Congressman James, Mrs. Rose Copeland, of Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Grant Bugg, of Fredonia, Mr. and Mrs.

Adams, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Nunn, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Flannery, Misses ant memories of the days of "Auld Lang Syne," and was enjoyed by each and every one there. The gentlemen present voted thanks for the invitation to be present and hope the reunion will take place each year hereafter. Delicious refreshments were served and were enjoyed almost as much as the sight of the portly congressman in the maizes of "Old Sister Phoebe" and "Snap." Mrs. Nunn is an ideal hostess and was assisted in entertaining by her sister Miss Della Barnes.

Electric lights are a wonderful convenience, cleanly, ever ready and safe. However, everything gets out of fix some times, and it's a wise housekeeper who keeps lamps filled, cleaned and ready in event of an emergency. Fix your lamps and cover them, chimney and all, with a paper sack and set them where you can find them if you need them quick, otherwise you might be where Moses was when the light went out—in the dark.

Walter Walker, former manager of the opera house, took possession of the electric light fixtures, furniture, bill boards and other properties transferred to Wm. Boaz by Walker in accordance with a lien held on the property by Walker. The fixtures have been withdrawn from the house. The drop curtain which is also the property of Walker will be withdrawn from the house after due process of the law.

An amusing thing occurred in the Wooldridge barber shop a few days ago. A commercial traveler called in to get a shine. Ike, the expert boot black, did the job for him so well that his shoes fairly glittered. After brushing his clothes and hat, Ike reached his hand for the "tip." The drummer gave him a quarter and declined to take any change. When he was ready to leave the shop, Ike opened the door for him and said, "Mister for the Lord sake, come back some time soon."

Marion certainly has many advantages not yet known to the world. For instance people send away to Messina in Sicily, for lemons, (and they have become a necessity as well as a luxury with many of us,) when they can be obtained right here in Marion fresh from the tree. Frank Dodge raises them and has them as large as a goose egg. For prices by the box write to him. If Al Witherspoon had known that lemons like those could be raised in Marion he would never have gone to California.

The robbers had taken two revolvers, two watches and about thirty dollars in cash from the bureau.

Henry Ratcliff, of Marion, Ky., who was on the Creek, was arrested and identified as the young man who enticed Mr. Riggs away from home. He waived examination and was bound over under a $200 bond. He then made a full confession and named Zenas Palmer and Otto Holbrooks as the ones who carried the bureau off.—Elizabethtown (Ill.) Independent Starr.

MARRIED IN COLORADO.

We take the following from the Pueblo Chieftain of Aug. 11:

The culmination of a romantic love affair took place in the parlors of the De Remer house last night, when the wedding of B. Hopkins, of Turrett, Col., and Miss Lorena B. Harpending, of Salem, Ky., was solemnized.

Through the medium of a mutual friend the parties met in November last and fell in love. The parents of the bride did not favor the lovers and every obstacle was thrown in their way. The lover was on the alert, however, and an elopement was decided on.

Papa was also wise and their little plan was frustrated. This was in June. It was finally decided she should skip from home and meet her lover at Pueblo, Col. and this she did.

The ceremony was performed as soon after her arrival as possible, and at 10 o'clock the young couple were made man and wife.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. T. A. Harpending, one of Crittenden county's leading farmers. She is a handsome young lady and has numerous friends in both Crittenden and Livingston counties who will join the Press in wishing her much happiness in her western home.

Special Notice.

After this date all electric light customers will please report all complaints at their office and call there and pay all bills. August bills will be ready September 1st.

STRAYED.

From my farm on river above Dycusburg, nine head of shoats, most all black, about 70 pounds average, uniform in size; some of them unmarked, some marked underbit in each ear and light swallow fork in the left; were last seen between the George Boaz farm and Francis early last week. Will pay liberal reward for any information leading to their recovery.

THE COUNTRY EDITOR

And the Weekly Paper Paid High Compliment.

THE EDITOR'S TURBID CAREER

The editor of the Atlanta News, in contributing his regular Saturday evening column to that paper recently paid the following glowing tribute to the country newspapers:

Sitting here with the debris of a weekly toil about us—scattered clippings, crumpled copy and a pair of yawning shears piled high above a mass of Georgia papers—the pen of Saturday Evening is filled with sentiment of tenderness for the country newspapers.

How quiet, and yet how potential a work they do in the realm of newspaperdom, and how thankless oftentimes are their labors!

Quiet unhonored, sometimes desperately obscure, many times engaged in a hand to hand combat with direst poverty, and the chances ten to one against them, it is just simply superb to see them come up to the scratch of each succeeding issue dauntless, cheery, insouciant, Micawberlike, as before.

We have often thought that nothing but the strange fascination of seeing one's thoughts on paper, on fair black and white, could ever explain the sublime pertinacity with which some editors do stick to their thankless calling, but we do honestly believe now that there are many of them who appreciate the deep importance and responsibility of their rank and stick to it for "the love of the thing," and where such a one does exist, true to the instincts of his craft in its highest plane, imbued with the desire to elevate, enlighten, instruct, defend and represent the people of whom he is the political organic center, holding his honor and good name of his people precious, pandering to false sensations and poisonous sweets of scandal, that would please but debase, keeping a white example of political faith, and public morality and political honor in the organ through which he speaks the sentiment of his fellow-citizens—when such a one can be found we doff our hats in professional respect to the most valuable and inestimable citizen of the Republic.

The importance of the country newspaper is rare considered. It is, to be body journalistic, what agriculture is to the body politic—the bone and sinew of it all—the feeder of the big metropolitan journals whose thunderous roar is but the concrete sound of the busy voices of the rural press.

The country papers are the thousand small streams that flow into the maelstrom of the metropolis, the various couriers which go swift-winged with their tidings to the great herald arteries that throb out our states to the world.

And again, we say that the editor, who, in the full light of his realized responsibility, fulfills to the extent of the man that is in him, the high grappling duties of his station, is a citizen who ought to wear the laurel.

Brave little sheet that it is, wrapping in its history a thousand heartaches and crumpled ambitions, of bitter sacrifices he is made, without a blot upon its record of faith and purity, and not a foul, scandalous line to mar the symmetry of its truth and constancy.

In the fellowship of journalism it is the quite, golden-hearted gentleman, stainless and pure as the white soul of him who guides its cruise over the deeps and shallows of this stormy age of journalism.

From the city to the country, from the throbbing pavement to the waving fields, we send today the highest greetings of the craft who wield the pen.

THE TEN GREATEST MEN.

A German newspaper has recently propounded to its readers the question: Who are the ten greatest men alive today? An examination of the replies received makes interesting reading. Five hundred and two readers voted for Tolstoi; the German historian, Mommsen, was a close second with 496; Marconi followed with 455; Isben received 425; Edison, 368; Nansen, 270; Roentgen, 264; Menzel, the German painter, 248; Koch, the bacteriologist, 238, while the Kaiser ignominiously brought up the rear with only 202. It is well to note that of these ten candidates six are German; such insignificant personages as Herbert Spencer, George Meredith and Thomas Hardy were not even mentioned. Among those who received over 100 votes were Chamberlain the Russian novelist Gorky, Hauptmann, the dramatist, and Max Klinger, the German artist.—Harper's Weekly.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

The ladies of the Noirma Club met at Hill Spring, the birthplace of the Club, Thursday, August 13, 1903, and, amid the scenes she loved so well, passed the following resolutions on the death of the originator, Mrs. Laura A. Wilborn, who died August 8, 1903:

Whereas, God, in his infinite wisdom, has removed from our midst our friend and former President, Mrs. Laura A. Wilborn; and

Whereas, By her death we are deprived of one who possessed intellectual qualities of a high order, rare sweetness of character, a warm and sympathetic heart, and deep religious feeling; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Noirma Club do hereby express our heartfelt grief at her death, our sympathy for her family, and the respect with which we hold her memory; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the Minutes of the Club and be printed in the Crittenden Press, and a copy be sent to her family.

LACK OF EDUCATION

No Reason For Failure in Life.

Too many young men are under the impression that a man cannot enter business and do well without a first class education. This is all a mistake. It is true that every one should be educated if possible and it is true also that hundreds of America's foremost citizens have been among the uneducated. Don't allow thoughts of a discouraging nature to control your mind and keep you down among the rocky roads of hard labor and poor pay all your life just because you lack an education. The bright young man who is not afraid of work and will do the things he knows should be done and is honest in his dealings with other men and will try always to work for the best interest of his employer will be far more successful and popular than will the college man who does not apply his intellect, for this latter constantly exercised will do more for the financial interest of a man whether old or young than the best college education.

It is not what a man knows that attracts but what he does. It is the use he puts his knowledge to that places him in a position to attract to himself the financial success for which all active and intelligent men are laboring. Study yourself, examine the working of your own thoughts and prove to your own satisfaction that your actions are founded on reason and not on empty sentiment. If we are practical we will gain an education from every day life, for after all one's education really just begins when he has left school and has entered into the world of business where he must mingle with them of intellect and ability. School yourself young man to control your passions, curb your temper, master self and you have won an education that will be a benefit to you in your every day business life.

Learn then to make each day a step on the ladder of success that you must climb if you would be recognized as a man not of education only but one of practical common sense and shrewd business ability.

To Clean a Straw Hat.

Take the band off, mix lemon juice and flour of sulphur into a paste, brush this into your hat with a small brush, into every crevice and cranny of the band, underside of brim included, and dry thoroughly, either overnight or by hanging out in the sunshine, then brush it off with a dry brush, and you will find your hat as white as snow.

A TERRIBLE HURRICANE.

Death and devastation were spread broadcast on the Island of Jamaica by the second visitation of the hurricane which has been playing havoc throughout the Antilles. Property worth ten millions of dollars was ruined, thousands of persons were made homeless and at least fifty lives are known to have been lost. Many ships in the harbors were sunk or blown ashore, and thousands of residences, business houses, hotels and churches were destroyed.

THE ONLY REMEDY

For Assaults on Southern Women is Lynching.

Unique among all summer gatherings is the "mob conference" now in progress at Chautauque, N. Y. The increase of mob spirit shown by fends, lynchings, assassinations, riots and other lawless happenings, gives great importance to this conference. John Temple Graves, of Atlanta, Ga., spoke on "The Mob Spirit of the South." He defended lynching as a remedy for the crime of rape, holding that though lynching is a crime, it is justified by the crime which provoked it, and will never be discontinued until the cause is eliminated. The remedy for lynching must be the elimination of the crime of rape, and this, said he, can only be done by the separation of the two races in the United States.

"The problem of the hour is not how to prevent lynching in the South, but the larger question: How shall we destroy the crime which always has and always will provoke lynching? The answer which the mob returns to this vital question is already known. The mob answers it with a rape, the bullet, and sometimes, God save us, with the torch. And the mob is practical; its theory is effective to a large degree; the mob today is the sternest, the strongest and the most effective restraint that the age holds for the control of the rape fiend.

The lynching does not exterminate the rapist, Mr. Graves contended, but it holds them tightly in check. As a sheer, cold, patent fact, he said, the mob stands today as the most potent bulwark between the women of the South, and such a carnival of crime as would infuriate the world and precipitate the annihilation of the negro race. The masses of the negro, he held, are not afraid of death coming in a regular way. They love display, and the spectacular element of a trial and execution appeal to their imagination.

Expediting the process to the law, would not be adequate to eliminating lynching. The repeal of the amendment and the establishment of the negro's inferiority in law and society, said Mr. Graves, though desirable, are not sufficient for the negroes, he added, is a thing of the senses, and with this race, and with all similar races, the desire of the senses must be restrained by the terror of the senses, if possible under the law.

No influence of suppression so mighty and effective could be brought to bear as a law making amputation the remedy for the crime of rape, but this, like Curfew edicts, separate laws for white and black, or the treatment of the crime of rape as separate and outside of all other codes, are but expedients, he maintained; there is no real remedy but one. No statute will permanently solve this problem. Religion does not solve it. Education complicates it. Politics complicates it. "The truth which lies beyond and above all these temporizing expedients," he concluded, "is that separation is the logical, the inevitable, the only solution of the great problem of the races."

Spring Ailments.

There is an aching and tired feeling, the liver, bowels and kidneys become sluggish and inactive, the digestion impaired, with little or no appetite, no ambition for anything and a feeling that the whole body and mind needs toning up. The trouble is that during the winter there has been an accumulation of waste matter in the system. Herbine will relieve it, secure to the secretions a right exit, and by its tonic effect fully restore the wasted tissue and give you strength instead of weakness; 50 cents at Woods & Co's.

Boy Cured of Colic After Physician's Treatment Failed.

My boy when four years old was taken with colic and cramps in his stomach. I sent for the doctor and he ejected morphine, but the child kept getting worse. I then gave him half a teaspoonful of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and in half an hour he was sleeping and soon recovered.—F. L. Wilkins, Shell Lake, Wis. World Wide Reputation.

White's Cream Vermifuge has achieved a world wide reputation as being the best of all worm destroyers, and for its tonic influence on weak and unthrifty children, as it neutralizes the acidity or sourness of the stomach, improves their digestion; and assimilation of food, strengthens their nervous system, and restores them to the health, vigor, and elasticity of spirits natural to childhood; 25c at Woods & Co's.

Lament of the Country.
Give back, O city, from thy clutch
My children to my breast,
That, ravished, aches to feel their touch
And feel their pain to rest!
My days are full, while hark, they cry
For food, but cry in vain!
O vampire of the guttering life,
Give back mine own again!
My fields are golden seas of grain
I bore for them to reap;
My bounty swells some gambler's gain
Who needs not while they weep.
My children render to my arms,
Thou wanton draped in red,
That lurk at the quick with deadly charms
And send me but the dead.
Give back the children whom I nursed
And brought to man's estate
Until they heard thy voice accursed,
Thou cursed one of fate!
Mine age is lonely, and my breast
Lones for my faithless sons
That I may feel their pain to rest,
My poor deluded ones.
—W. W. Whitelock in McClure's Magazine.

Not Over-Wise.

There is an old allegorical picture of a girl scared at a grass hopper, but in the act of heedlessly treading on a snake. This is paralleled by the man who spends a large sum of money building a cyclone cellar, but neglects to provide his family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against bowel complaints, whose victims outnumber those of the cyclone a hundred to one. This remedy is everywhere recognized as the most prompt and reliable medicine in use for these diseases. For sale by Woods & Co.

A Financier.

Oh, they fell out, those lovers twain,
As lovers often do,
And both sent back the gifts they made
When love was bright and new.
He signed o'er all that she returned—
The ring with jewels set,
The locket and bonbonniere,
And, lo, he keeps them yet.
Not so the maid, a modern girl,
On thoughts commercial bent;
She straightway packed the trinkets up
And to a jeweler went.
She sold the case for cigarette
With emeralds upon it,
The stud, the pencil and the pin,
And bought herself a bonnet.

An Optimist.
There was once a man who smiled
Because the day was bright,
Because he slept at night,
Because God gave him sight
To gaze upon his child;
Because his little ones
Could leap and laugh and run;
Because the distant sun
Smiled on the earth he smiled.

He smiled because the sky
Was high above his head;
Because the rose was red,
Because the past was dead;
He never wondered why
The Lord had blundered so,
That all things have to go,
That wrong way here, below
That everlasting sky.

He tolled and still was glad
Because the air was free;
Because he loved and she
That claimed his love and he Shared all the joys they had;
Because the grasses grew,
Because the sweet winds blew,
Because that he could hear
And hammer he was glad.

Because he lived and smiled
And did not look ahead
With bitterness or dread,
But nightly sought his bed
As calmly as a child,
And people called him mad
For being always glad,
With such things as he had,
And shook their heads and smiled.

Better Than Gold

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female trouble; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Woods & Co.

Half Past People.

Who are half past people?
Who and what are they?
They're the rankest failures
On this ball of clay.
Through a curse that on them
Placed an edditch fate
At their birth, they're always Thirty minutes late.

'Tisn't ill intention,
'Tisn't laziness
Or indifference or Vanity in dress
That retards the wretches,
Body, mind and soul;
Nay, they rush like fury
Ever for the goal.

Yet when love expects them—
Say, at ten o'clock—
They will sprain their ankles
On some wicked rock,
Making an appearance
At the trying when Love has left discouraged
Thirty after ten.

Should ambition tell them,
"Seven sharp we start
Out for fame in battle,
Out for gold in mart,"
Then, at half past seven,
Breathless they would come
Only to be hearing
Far away, the drum.

Thus the half past people
Through the spleen of fate
Live, except at failure,
Thirty minutes late.
—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Man and Mule.

The mule he is a gentle beast,
And so is man.
He's satisfied to be the least,
And so is man.
Like man, he may be taught some tricks;
He does his work from eight to six;
The mule, when he gets mad, he kicks,
And so does man.
The mule he has a load to pull,
And so has man.
He's happiest when he is full,
And so is man.
Like man, he holds a patient pose
And when his work's done will rejoice.
The mule he likes to hear his voice,
And so does man.

The mule is sometimes kind and good,
And so is man.
He eats all kinds of breakfast food,
And so does man.
Like man, he balks at gaudy dress
And all outlandish foolishness;
The mule's accused of mulishness,
And so is man.

Following the Band.

Life was a joy when I was a boy.
In the days of long ago,
When eye and ear could see and hear
The things it was good to know,
But the kind old earth, once glad with mirth
And pleasures high and grand, Seems stale and tame since I became Too big to follow the band.

Yet I dare say earth holds today
About as much of more
Of joy and cheer, right now and here,
Than ever it held before,
But by our pride we're now denied
God's gifts on every hand;
We've grown too proud to follow the crowd,
Too big to follow the band.

I'd like to stray in a careless way
Through the broad green fields of youth
And wander back along life's track
To the blissful spring of truth,
I'd like to trade my woe, self made,
And the cares that come to men
For the keen delight of a boy's glad right
To follow the band again.

Nobles in Mean Attire.

Where did etiquette require nobles to appear before their sovereigns neatly clad?
This singular custom characterized court ceremonial in ancient Mexico under the Aztec dominion. When the native lords and grandees had occasion to seek the presence of Montezuma they were under the obligation, as Toribio de Benevente, a Spanish Franciscan missionary who accompanied the Conquistador Cortes, testifies, of assuming a voluminous mantle of poor material (una manta grosera y pobre), with which they covered and concealed their ordinary robes, in token of subjection and humiliation.

These were manufactured out of the leaves of the aloe tree by the commoner classes. Etiquette required the strict observance of this custom by all those who came into the emperor's presence, with the exception of persons of the royal blood. Any one seeking audience of the emperor had to don these common clothes on his arrival at the palace. Barefooted and wretchedly clad, he was led before the sovereign and with downcast eyes made his request, with every outward sign of abject subservience.—London Answers.

Mrs. Mollie Allen, of South Fork Ky., says she has prevented attacks of cholera morbus by taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when she felt an attack coming on. Attacks of bilious colic may be prevented in the same way. For sale by Woods & Co.
